Question 6
What is the current rate the City is paying for the current service of 2x week Cart Garbage collection and 1x weekly Yard Waste Cart Collection? - Sep 19, 2013 8:24:17 AM EDT
Answer - Sep 24, 2013 3:57:51 PM EDT

Contract 692-10119 - $6.74/unit for solid waste (City pays disposal), $3.15/unit for yard waste (contractor pays disposal).
Upon review of the two contracts listed above, there is a large discrepancy in the number of carts listed in the two existing contracts compared to the Current Bid 643-11289 cart count.

Contract 682-9843 request service rates for 23,261 carts
Contract 682-119 request service rates for 27,537 carts

Current Bid 643-11289 request service rates 37,088 Carts

Question 50

Will the City extend the due date for the bid? (Submitted: Oct 2, 2013 4:55:24 PM EDT)

Answer

- No the City will not be extending the bid due date (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 3:36:27 PM EDT)

Question 51

1. The bid bond required to be returned in the bid package is currently supposed to be EXACTLY 5% of the bid amount. Let me tell you why this is difficult. All companies go out to sureties to get the bid bonds, a process that takes a couple of days. If a company is not done with their pricing, which is the most complicated, collaborative, and critical part of the bid submittal, until a day before it is due, it could very well end up that the bid bond already received is not EXACTLY 5% of the bid to be submitted and there may not be time to get a replacement. This would be a potential event of disqualification. To avoid this scenario, it is suggested that you change the requirement to be a MINIMUM of 5% on the face of the bid bond. This way the City is absolutely still protected and the bidders have a little leeway in last minute calculations and adjustments. I have seen the disqualification fight before in other jurisdictions and this is an easy fix that keeps the City whole. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:34:24 AM EDT)

Answer

- Adequate time has been provided for bidders to respond to this ITB and meet bid bond requirements. It is expected that all responding bidders meet this requirement with a minimum 5% bid bond. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

Question 52

2. The recently released answers require a $5,000,000 performance bond be posted by the winning company. As you know, the service today is approximately $3,500,000 per year, under this pricing, the performance bond would be well in excess of over a year of costs to the City, this is simply too much and drives the cost to the city up. The City would be well protected with a performance bond that was equal to one year of service. Let me illustrate how this drives up the cost. Using today's numbers, over a 5 year contract, the company would have to potentially bond in excess of $7,500,000 more than necessary. If a performance bond costs 2% of face value, that means, the company has to figure in $150,000 in additional cost structure for this item alone and that gets figured into the rate quoted to you when the proformas are calculated. Given that one year of performance bond should be plenty and the effect it will have on the residential calculations, I would think that the City would be willing to require only a year, whatever that calculation comes out to be when the contracts are ultimately signed. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:34:57 AM EDT)

Answer

- Performance bonds are issued to provide the City security in the event the Contractor fails to perform the scope of work under this ITB or goes out of business and allows the City a mechanism to recoup costs related to performing the work, replacing the Contractor and/or potentially correcting defective work. the performance bond requirement remains as it is in the ITB. This is an expense that all bidders will be incorporating into their UNIT PRICE calculations. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

Question 53

3. The recently released answers require a separate and distinct $5,000,000 PAYMENT bond to be posted by the winning bidder, to say the least this is over-overkill. Assuming at the current annual contract rate the amount of 23% franchise fees collected would be perhaps $800,000, this means that each and every year an EXTRA $4,200,000 must be bonded. Using the example formula in #2 above, this could potentially mean that an EXTRA $420,000 in bonding expense must be figured in when calculating the monthly rate to the residents. You and I both know that if a company is not paying their franchise fees, you would seek to have them tossed after 90 days of non payment. Any new hauler you brought in would have to pick up paying when they started the service. The most I could ever imagine you would ever be out if you had a defaulting hauler might be as high as 6 months, maybe. The suggestion that the City accept a payment bond for a year of franchise fees, calculated at the time the contracts are signed, is more than reasonable, fiscally responsible, and may yield you a better price because superfluous costs are not baked in. Add this to the amount of excess cost in #2 and its seems like it is adding too much expense for not a lot of return to the City, my suggestions would be more than adequate to keep you whole. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:35:19 AM EDT)

Answer

- Payment bonds are issued to provide security in the event a contractor fails to pay its workers, subcontractors or suppliers. They are typically paired with a performance bond. Due to the scope of the work outlined in this ITB, the payment bond requirement remains as is in the ITB. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

Question 54

4. With respect to the minimum qualifications I believe you are leaving the City at risk to potentially be forced to accept a non-qualified proposer, who, because they don't have the right experience, have no idea how to price the service, provide a lowball offer that you must accept because of your criteria. Imagine a case where they qualify in every qualification category, but because this one is so wide open, you have to take them on. There are plenty of companies that are solid waste haulers who have never done a day's worth of residential routing or pick up. They may not have automated experience, no customer service training for their employees, no neighborhood routing experience. PLEASE SEE DEFINITION OF SOLID WASTE BELOW FROM FLORIDA ADMINISTRATIVE CODE.* I strongly believe that the proposer should be required to have automated residential MUNICIPAL solid waste and yard waste experience. This will still leave many companies able to bid, but will limit it to those with experience in the service you currently provide and at a professionalism level you want to provide. You do not want someone learning the trade on the backs of your/our City. The way it is written, you could have the most financially stable sludge hauler who wants to try their hand at residential MSW pick up, provide the best price and otherwise qualify, even though they have never done it before. Food for thought. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:35:51 AM EDT)

Answer

- The eligibility requirements include the Bidder submitting an acceptable business operating plan, access to equipment and vehicles, and demonstration that it can successfully collect garbage and yard waste in areas with similar climates and routes as are present in South Florida. The Bidder must also provide sufficient and satisfactory references as evidence. Additionally, the City reserves the right to impose a "Service Test Period" (See ITB Part I - Section 15) to determine if the Contractor can perform in accordance with the requirements of the contract and to the City's satisfaction. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

- Section 2.08 speaks to the potential need for a cart to be serviced outside of a normal collection day. The items placed in the cart must be acceptable items (trash or yard waste) and would be expected to be serviced by the Contractor upon City request. Code compliance may request this service in assisting a non-compliant homeowner while correcting a violation notice, working with another department within the City to address a specific clean-up issue (litter clean-up for example) or to address overflow that may occur that requires attention prior to the next service day. (Answered: Sep 26, 2013 10:46:11 AM EDT)

Question 6
What is the current rate the City is paying for the current service of 2x week Cart Garbage collection and 1x weekly Yard Waste Cart Collection? - Sep 19, 2013 8:24:17 AM EDT
Answer - Sep 24, 2013 3:57:51 PM EDT
Contract 682-9843 - $7.74/unit for combined garbage and yard waste (City pays disposal).
Contract 692-10119 - $6.74/unit for solid waste (City pays disposal), $3.15/unit for yard waste (contractor pays disposal).
Upon review of the two contracts listed above, there is a large discrepancy in the number of carts listed in the two existing contracts compared to the Current Bid 643-11289 cart count.

Contract 682-9843 request service rates for 23,261 carts.

Contract 682-119 request service rates for 27,537 carts
Total Number of Carts 50,798 carts
Current Bid 643-11289 request service rates 37,088 Carts
Cart Count Difference is 13, 710 Carts

Answer
- 1. Currently billing for 23,261 UNITS (not carts).

3. Total number of UNITS 37,398 (not carts). Current Bid is for 37,088 UNITS as per the May 2013 Utility Billing. (Answered: Oct 1, 2013 11:17:38 AM EDT)

Question 29
Should franchise fees of 23% be added to the unit price quotes on page 2 of the bid? (Submitted: Sep 26, 2013 12:51:01 PM EDT)

Answer
- Bidders should consider all expenses (including franchise fees) in their calculations used to arrive at their proposed UNIT RATE. The City Franchise Fee should be viewed as an expected cost and incorporated into that UNIT RATE. Any invoicing received by the City from the awarded Contractor must NOT include Franchise Fees as a line item. The City will calculate the Franchise Fees owed and payable by the Contractor as 23% of the total invoice amount billed to the City. (Answered: Oct 1, 2013 11:17:38 AM EDT)

Question 30
In Bid Section Part 1- Item 18 states on page 8 that the contractor shall remit franchise fees to the City no later than the 20th of the month. Answer

Question 51
1. The bid bond required to be returned in the bid package is currently supposed to be EXACTLY 5% of the bid amount. Let me tell you why this is difficult. All companies go out to sureties to get the bid bonds, a process that takes a couple of days. If a company is not done with their pricing, which is the most complicated, collaborative, and critical part of the bid submittal, until a day before it is due, it could very well end up that the bid bond already received is not EXACTLY 5% of the bid to be submitted and there may not be time to get a replacement. This would be a potential event of disqualification. To avoid this scenario, it is suggested that you change the requirement to be a MINIMUM of 5% on the face of the bid bond. This way the City is absolutely still protected and the bidders have a little leeway in last minute calculations and adjustments. I have seen the disqualification fight before in other jurisdictions and this is an easy fix that keeps the City whole. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:34:24 AM EDT)

Answer
- Adequate time has been provided for bidders to respond to this ITB and meet bid bond requirements. It is expected that all responding bidders meet this requirement with a minimum 5% bid bond. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

Question 52
2. The recently released answers require a $5,000,000 performance bond be posted by the winning company. As you know, the service today is approximately $3,500,000 per year, under this pricing, the performance bond would be well in excess of over a year of costs to the City, this is simply too much and drives the cost to the city up. The City would be well protected with a performance bond that was equal to one year of service. Let me illustrate how this drives up the cost. Using today's numbers, over a 5 year contract, the company would have to potentially bond in excess of $7,500,000 more than necessary. If a performance bond costs 2% of face value, that means, the company has to figure in $150,000 in additional cost structure for this item alone and that gets figured into the rate quoted to you when the proformas are calculated. Given that one year of performance bond should be plenty and the effect it will have on the residential calculations, I would think that the City would be willing to require only a year, whatever that calculation comes out to be when the contracts are ultimately signed. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:34:57 AM EDT)

Answer
- Performance bonds are issued to provide the City security in the event the Contractor fails to perform the scope of work under this ITB or goes out of business and allows the City a mechanism to recoup costs related to performing the work, replacing the Contractor and/or potentially correcting defective work. the performance bond requirement remains as it is in the ITB. This is an expense that all bidders will be incorporating into their UNIT PRICE calculations. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

Question 53
3. The recently released answers require a separate and distinct $5,000,000 PAYMENT bond to be posted by the winning bidder, to say the least this is over-overkill. Assuming at the current annual contract rate the amount of 23% franchise fees collected would be perhaps $800,000, this means that each and every year an EXTRA $4,200,000 must be bonded. Using the example formula in

#2 above, this could potentially mean that an EXTRA $420,000 in bonding expense must be figured in when calculating the monthly rate to the residents. You and I both know that if a company is not paying their franchise fees, you would seek to have them tossed after 90 days of non payment. Any new hauler you brought in would have to pick up paying when they started the service. The most I could ever imagine you would ever be out if you had a defaulting hauler might be as high as 6 months, maybe. The suggestion that the City accept a payment bond for a year of franchise fees, calculated at the time the contracts are signed, is more than reasonable, fiscally responsible, and may yield you a better price because superfluous costs are not baked in. Add this to the amount of excess cost in #2 and its seems like it is adding too much expense for not a lot of return to the City, my suggestions would be more than adequate to keep you whole. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:35:19 AM EDT)

Answer

Payment bonds are issued to provide security in the event a contractor fails to pay its workers, subcontractors or suppliers. They are typically paired with a performance bond. Due to the scope of the work outlined in this ITB, the payment bond requirement remains as is in the ITB. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)

Question 54

4. With respect to the minimum qualifications I believe you are leaving the City at risk to potentially be forced to accept a non-qualified proposer, who, because they don't have the right experience, have no idea how to price the service, provide a lowball offer that you must accept because of your criteria. Imagine a case where they qualify in every qualification category, but because this one is so wide open, you have to take them on. There are plenty of companies that are solid waste haulers who have never done a day's worth of residential routing or pick up. They may not have automated experience, no customer service training for their employees, no neighborhood routing experience. PLEASE SEE DEFINITION OF SOLID WASTE BELOW FROM FLORIDA ADMINISTRATIVE CODE. I strongly believe that the proposer should be required to have automated residential MUNICIPAL solid waste and yard waste experience. This will still leave many companies able to bid, but will limit it to those with experience in the service you currently provide and at a professionalism level you want to provide. You do not want someone learning the trade on the backs of your/our City. The way it is written, you could have the most financially stable sludge hauler who wants to try their hand at residential MSW pick up, provide the best price and otherwise qualify, even though they have never done it before. Food for thought. (Submitted: Oct 3, 2013 9:35:51 AM EDT)

Answer

The eligibility requirements include the Bidder submitting an acceptable business operating plan, access to equipment and vehicles, and demonstration that it can successfully collect garbage and yard waste in areas with similar climates and routes as are present in South Florida. The Bidder must also provide sufficient and satisfactory references as evidence. Additionally, the City reserves the right to impose a "Service Test Period" (See ITB Part I - Section 15) to determine if the Contractor can perform in accordance with the requirements of the contract and to the City's satisfaction. (Answered: Oct 3, 2013 9:57:12 AM EDT)
